

Mr Metacognition – CPD and Consultancy Support

Bio:

Nathan Burns is a metacognitive researcher, author and consultant. He has so far written two books on metacognition, with 4 more in the pipeline, dozens of articles, 'how to' guides and recorded multiple podcasts. He currently supports schools around the country with staff training, workshops, student sessions and curriculum development.

Training and Workshop Options:

Below are a selection of the sessions that Nathan runs in schools across the UK. If there is something that you need, that is not listed below, then please ask! Also, please note that all sessions are tailored to your context.

Consultancy Options:

In addition to training and workshops, Nathan can provide consultancy. Consultancy will always be developed with your needs in mind, but may include:

- Observations of teaching, experience-based training, further observation
- 1-2-1 meetings with staff or groups of staff
- Curriculum development meetings
- Collaborative resource development
- Review of current resourcing and curriculum
- Long-term planning support
- 1-2-1 staff support for personal training (e.g. NPQML; Masters)

Reviews and Feedback:

Please see below for some of the comments Nathan has received following his work:

Dave Tushingam – I always learn something when I listen to Nathan or read his book.

Jayne Harmer (@mrsjharmer), AHT – your passion was infectious, clear strategies for implementation to support and guide learning for all.

Enclave Academy – I'm a big fan of Mr Metacognition. His pedagogical insights are transferrable to adult education and corporate training and development programmes. You'll want to add his book to your Metalibrary.
